DAILY GAZETTE.

The Battle of Baton Rouge.

Lieut. Weitzel, chief engineer of the department of the Gulf, visited Baton Rouge

on Wednesday after the battle. The following is his report of the engagement:

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 7, 1862.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of yesterday.

Your troops at this place have won a glorious victory. I do not consider that there is the least danger of an attack for the present, because one of the several recon-noitering parties sent out this morning, and

which has returned, reports five abandoned

cassions on the Greenwell Springs road.

We have sent out to bring them in. This indicates a hasty retreat on the part of the enemy. Our forces could not pursue.

One-half of the men who left the hospital to fight, could not march a mile. The conduct of these men was magnificently glorious. The attack was undoubtedly made upon representations of rebels within our lines that our troops were nearly all sick

and demoralized, and Gen. Breckinridge

undoubtedly expected, in conjunction with

the ram Arkansas, to make a successful

dash. It was a complete failure. The ram is blown up. Their troops were repulsed.

Gen. Williams disposed his forces as follows, viz: The 4th Wisconsin on the ex-

Gross, with two pieces of Manning's battery in the arched grounds, on the left of the Wisconsin line. The 9th Connecti-cute was posted on the right of the 4th Wisconsin, with two pieces in rear of centre, and two pieces in rear of the right. All of these pieces were of Manning's battery, and were posted on either side of the knoll in the government cemetery.

Next came the 14th Maine, posted in rear of the Bayou Sara road, and to the left of Greenwell Springs road.

Next came the 21st Indiana, posted in the woods in rear of Magnolia cemetery, with four pieces of Everett's battery (under command of Lieut. Corbett) on the left, on the Greenwell Springs road. The Indiana

battery of two pieces came up to the support of these pieces after the battle commenced. Next came the 6th Michigan, posted across the country road on the right of the Magnolia cemetery and across the Clay Cut road, their left supporting two

The Battle of Baton Rouge.

Lieut. Weitzel, chief engineer of the department of the Gulf, visited Baton Rouge
on Wednesday after the battle. The following is his report of the engagement:

HEADQUARTERS BATON ROUGE, Aug. 7, 1862.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of yesterday.

Your troops at this place have won a glorious victory. I do not consider that there
is the least danger of an attack for the

present, because one of the several recon-noitering parties sent out this morning, and
which has returned, reports five abandoned

campfires on the Greenwell Springs road.

We have sent out to bring them in. This indicates a hasty retreat on the part of the enemy. Our forces were nearly all sick

and demoralized, and Gen. Breckinridge

undoubtedly expected, in conjunction with
the ram Arkansas, to make a successful

blow on the complete failure. The ram is down on the Greenwell Springs road.

Gen. Williams disposed his forces as fol-
treme left, on the right bank of Bayou

Gross, with two pieces of Manning's battery in the arsenal grounds, on the left of the Wisconsin 4th. The 9th Connecticut

All loyal electors of the district, without regard to past political differences, who, in this hour of national trial and peril, will sustain the state and federal administrations in a vigorous prosecution of the war, until rebellion is crushed, traitors punished, the integrity of the Union preserved, and the supremacy of the constitution and laws enforced and respected, are invited to attend and vote on the 24th inst. The national boundaries, are invited to unite with the republicans in electing delegates to this convention.

Each Assembly and Senatorial district will be entitled to two delegates in said convention.

Fill up the Old Regiments.

The opportunity for enlistments in the old regiments will remain open until the 1st of September with the bounties. After that time the bounties will close. The advantage of joining those skilled in tactics and the duties of camp is very great, so much so that an enlistment in them is far preferable to joining the new regiments where nearly all of the officers and privates are ignorant of what is required of them in actual campaigning. It must be far preferable to go into the old regiments for both health and safety.

About the Quotas.

The question about the quotas of our towns and cities in this country grows more mixed every hour. Every ray of light we receive from Madison makes the subject darker. In the multiplicity of figuring the whole thing is inextricably confused, and we give it up and await the official returns, believing, on faith, that Janesville has raised her full quota, and hoping that she will not be more than 275 behind.

People in many southern and in a few northern counties in Illinois, are petitioning the governor for leave to raise home guards to protect persons and property from secret secessionists, in view of the departure of volunteers. In some counties much alarm is manifested.

THE TWENTY-SECOND REGIMENT.—The regimental officers of this regiment are: Colonel—W. L. URLEY, of Racine. Lieutenant—Col. E. Bloodgood, of Waukesha. Major—W. A. Green, of Jefferson Co. Adjutant—Wm. Bone, of Racine Co. Quartermaster—John E. Holmes, of Jefferson Co. Surgeon—G. W. Bicknell, of Beloit. Supt.—E. Sanford Blake, of Racine.

HEADED OFF.—A Washington correspondent says: "The post-office department continues to receive, in the face of the late circular, appointments of assistant postmasters at the rate of from one to two hundred per day. As it is believed that these are all made to escape the draft, they will in every case be revoked."

NOBLE LITTLE RUDDY.—Rhode Island has a population of 20,000 liable to military duty, and she has now (or will have before the 1st of September) 12,000 in the field. Can a country, with such a people, be whipped?

THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.—One of the busiest establishments of the government just now is the public printing office at Washington. It is working day and night in printing the new enlistment rolls, internal tax lists, assessors' books, and other large works imperatively demanded in the new labors which have so suddenly been placed upon the military and civil departments. The printing, binding, finishing, &c., of all the government work is now done in one building.

One regiment a day from the new levies is now said to be moving towards Washington.

GEN. HALLECK INSULTED.—Quite a sensation was created in Washington, says a correspondent, on Saturday, by a curious and significant speech of foreign war!

Gen. Halleck visited the Capitol grounds to enjoy the music there, and was openly insulted by an insolent Englishman.

Not having the fear of Britannia before his eyes, the indomitable commander-in-chief unconsciously collided the British vanguard and he handed him over to the police by whom he was conveyed to limbo. The impertinence of the Englishman has been growing more and more outrageous for some time past, and this last demonstration shows the folly of treating them with forbearance.

Editors GAZETTE:—I was pleased to hear from a brother of mine in Gen. Logan's division, near Bolivar, Tenn., the following views of camp life. "He says in a letter to his mother—'This evening I feel as though I should like to be at home, not indeed, to stay more than an hour or so. I have no desire to leave and return home. I like soldiering, and am determined to stay in the field till the thing is through with. Most of the men are of this mind.' He expresses the hope that the north will pour out overwhelming numbers to aid her armies in the field, and adds: 'Men need have no fear about the climate, because if they have moderate sense they can keep from being sick. I have never passed a more pleasant summer in my life, and never enjoyed as good health. True, we have had three hard marches, but then we got over these in a few days, and were better than ever. Men talk of the demoralization of the army. It is all humbug. The army is a vast temperance society. It is a very uncommon thing to see a man drunk; the punishment is so severe men dare not get drunk, and society is better in the army than out, so far as morality is concerned. There is no trouble about young men of ability rising in the army. The way is open to the highest rank, and if one exhibits the qualities of a soldier, all he has to do is to bide his time, and it will be all right.'"

My brother is an orderly sergeant and was in the battle of Shiloh. He is plainly an enthusiastic soldier. If he passes safely through this war his experience and power will be worth much to him as a lawyer and a citizen. Young men without families who come out of this glorious war with honor and health will find the best positions open to them. They are the ones who should enlist. I feel proud of my native land when I see so many of her young men step forth into the ranks. I say God speed to the members of my church and congregation who are soon to leave us. I am sorry to part with them, but my prayer is that we may meet again, and their names shall be in inscribed upon a roll of honor. Many strong hearts are beating for the fray. They feel homesick for the camp, but the wife and children or some feeble relative cling to them and they have not the heart to tear away. My mother says in her last letter—"Tom, don't know what duty is. But if he is drafted, he will then know. The time has come when we have nothing to say only that our country must be saved at any cost; and my children are no dearer to me than others who have gone and lost their lives, were to their mothers." This, from the lips of a frail woman just ready to die, has a smack of heroism and devotion to the country, which, thank God, are becoming universal among the women of our land. Two alternatives only seem to remain for our acceptance, to conquer or be subjugated. We must pour forth our heroes in solid columns and overcome this rebellion, or the most terrific retaliation will be experienced. We shall conquer only by the use of every means bestowed on us by God and nature. My wife says to me now as ever, "go." I have not yet heard the call of duty, but when it comes to my conscience, clearly, I shall not hesitate a moment. Till then, I shall do in the sphere God has assigned me what in me lies for the land of my birth.

For the Janesville Daily Gazette.

J. J. R. PEASE, Esq.: Dear Sir:—It is not my desire in addressing you this note, to mingle at all in the correspondence between you and Mr. Conger, further than to show that you are entirely mistaken in charging Mr. Conger with being connected with what you are pleased to term "the American House affair." Mr. Conger, in his letter to you of Aug. 20th, says you are "mistaken" in your representation of being brought in contact with him in the matter mentioned. In your reply of Aug. 21st you say, "Notwithstanding Mr. Conger's denial of the part taken by Conger & Co. in the American House affair last fall—the story is true—and shows that Conger & Co. are not to be trusted."

I now propose, Mr. Pease, to call your attention and the public's to the facts in regard to what you are pleased to call "the American House affair." I will endeavor to state them correctly, and leave a discriminating public to judge how far Mr. Conger was connected with that transaction. While Mr. Conger was absent from home, Mr. J. P. Wright of New York city, called at our office and left with me a note for collection against Mr. Wm. Murdock, bearing date Oct. 24, 1859, due in twelve months from date, for $250, upon which there were endorsements amounting to $150. This note was secured by a personal mortgage on a party or perhaps all, of the furniture in the American House. On this point I am unable to speak positively. Mr. Wright held this note and mortgage by assignment. This mortgage had been once renewed, by the proper affidavit, at Mr. Murdock's request. At the time to which you refer, the note had been past due nearly one year. I was instructed by Mr. Wright to say to Mr. Murdock, that the mortgage would not again be renewed, and if not paid when due, would be foreclosed and the property sold. Some six or eight days before the mortgage ran out, I called on Mr. Murdock and informed him what instructions Mr. Wright had left with me in regard to it.

Mr. Murdock remarked that he intended to pay the note, that the state owed him $1000 for boarding soldiers, and as soon as he could get that money it should be settled. My impression now is, that the mortgage would expire on the 24th of October last. I said to him, he must pay it before that time, or I should be compelled, under the instructions of Mr. Wright, to leave the mortgage in the hands of an officer, with directions to take possession of the property. Mr. Murdock then requested further time should, he given to pay the note. My reply was, give me a responsible note, and take what time, you please, in which to pay it. Mr. Murdock said he would get the note of Mr. Pease, and Mr. H. Richardson. I said to him, that would answer—give me your note, payable to the order of Mr. Pease, and endorsed by him and Mr. Richardson, and take your own time in which to pay it. He accordingly drew his note due in 30 days for $152 38 payable to the order of J. J. R. Pease. Mr. Pease delivered me this note, indorsed by himself and Mr. H. Richardson. Before, however, Mr. Pease delivered me the note, he required that I should assign to him the note and mortgage Mr. Wright held against Mr. Murdock and his property, which I did. Up to this time Mr. Conger knew nothing of the affair. Since I had taken the note, and given Mr. Murdock the time he requested, Mr. Conger suggested that as I was not authorized to extend the time of payment, I had best deduct our fees and advance the money on the note, which I did, and left the note in the Central Bank for payment. This suggestion was all Mr. Conger ever had to do with the transaction. Before the note fell due, Mr. Pease received from the war department Mr. Murdock's money, with which he paid the note. The public will now be able to judge, how far Mr. Conger had a hand in turning "the soldiers out of doors." Mr. Pease at no time, during the negotiation of this affair, stated to me that he was acting as one of the war committee, nor did he indorse the note as such committee, or offer to do so. I would not have taken it with any such appendage attached to it. "The American House affair" was settled by me, precisely as any other attorney of this city would have settled it, had it been left with them, not excepting Mr. Pease himself. Whether Mr. Pease was in fact one of the war committee at the time, I do not know, or care. One thing I do know, that in giving me the note in question, he said nothing of his honored position as a war committee man.

Respectfully,
WM. B. HAWES.

Battle of Cedar Mountain.

GENERAL GORDON'S OFFICIAL REPORT.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, IN THE FIELD, CAMP AT CEDAR MOUNTAIN, VA., Aug. 11, 1862.

Brig. Gen. A. S. W. Gordon, Chief of Division, Second Army Corps, Army of Virginia.

Sir: I have the honor to make the following report of the part taken by my brigade, in the recent battle of Saturday, Aug. 9th, at Cedar Mountain, three miles from Culpeper Court House, with the enemy under Gen. Jackson.

At 9 o'clock on the morning of the 9th, after a hurried march the day before, which was prolonged until 12 o'clock at night, I received orders to remove my brigade from the town of Culpeper where we were in bivouac, rapidly to the front, Gen. Crawford, commanding first brigade, first division, had been attacked and needed assistance. My brigade was put in motion at once, and reached the position of General Crawford about 12 m. I was directed by Gen. Roberts, of Gen. Pope's staff, to take position on the extreme right, which I occupied with my command of three regiments and two batteries.

Until 4 p. m. only a few discharges from the enemy's guns announced his presence. At this hour a severe cannonading began, extending from the left of our line across the road upon which our center rested. Our batteries, served with great vigor, responded manfully, and with such success that the whole of our left, consisting of Gen. Augur's division, advanced considerably from its first position, notwithstanding the one-way nature of the fire, and gave him the advantage of a plunging fire.

Until 5 p. m. this artillery practice continued with unabating severity. At this hour I heard quite a rapid musketry firing in my front, behind a range of timber, distant about one-third of a mile from my position. I was ordered by you, sir, to move at once with my brigade and support Gen. Crawford, who was engaging the enemy's left. I moved at once from my well chosen and exceedingly strong position, gaining the scene of action as briefly as a double quick movement could carry me.

I led into action the 2d Massachusetts regiment, Col. G. L. Andrews; 3d Wisconsin regiment, Col. Ruger, and the 27th Indiana regiment, Col. Colgrove. I should state that five companies of the 3d Wisconsin regiment, previously deployed as skirmishers in this same timber, had been ordered by you to join Gen. Crawford's command, which, after engaging the enemy with much gallantry, had been compelled to retire. I arrived in the timber as Mr. Col. Ruger was rallying his men, and added them to my command.

The enemy were posted in the edge of the woods, on the opposite side of a newly-mown wheat field; distance across this field is about two hundred yards. As I approached the opening, the enemy, from his concealed position, received me with a rapid and destructive fire, but my regiments, particularly the 2d Massachusetts and 3d Wisconsin, coolly took their assigned places, and replied with commendable coolness. For at least thirty minutes this terrible fire continued. Companies were left without officers, and men were falling in every direction from the fire of an enemy which largely outnumbered my brigade. Still there was no general falling back. Some disgraced instances of cowardice there were, but these only served to show in bolder relief the majesty of the courageous holder of others. The enemy having gained my right and rear, which by their superior numbers they were enabled to do without a check from me, poured in a destructive fire from this new direction.

The fire from the front had not been diminished. It was too evident that the spot that had witnessed the destruction of one brigade would go in a few minutes the grave of mine. I had resisted the suggestion of a staff officer of your command to withdraw when the contest seemed almost hopeless; but now my duty had been performed, as the reports will show. I had lost more than thirty in every hundred of my command; I therefore reluctantly withdrew, assembled my diminished numbers between the timber and my first position, and fell back to the right of the line which I had held since the beginning. This position I occupied until relieved at last by the fire of the night by troops from Gen. McDowell's division. There we slept upon our position. We had not driven the enemy from his; further than that, if he has anything of note to boast, it is not in his numerous dead which fell before the rifles of the 1st and 2d brigades of the 1st division. With my shattered brigade I occupied the front of the center of our line of battle until near daylight.

In conclusion, I ought, as I thus do, to mention the names of Col. Andrews, 2d Massachusetts regiment, Col. Ruger, 3d Wisconsin regiment, and Col. Colgrove, of 27th Indiana regiment, as deserving praise for gallant conduct. I by no means limit my commendation to the names mentioned. I would add the names of commissioned and non-commissioned officers of my command.

The dead, the honored dead, speak for themselves; they gave up their lives for their country's sake. The living yet live for their country, and the wounded in their suffering may be cheered by the consciousness that all this and more they can bear for the cause of American Freedom.

Last Night's Report.

New York, August 21.
The Commercial Advertiser says there are various rumors of a disaster to Gen. Pope current in the city, to day. We have in vain tried to trace them to any reliable source. We, however, conversed with a highly intelligent gentleman, who is greatly in the confidence of the administration, and who left Washington last evening. He assures us that they had received no such intelligence.

WASHINGTON, August 21.
It is ascertained from the state department that the rumors of intervention or mediation by European powers are without foundation.

To-Day's Report.

MORNING DISPATCHES.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 20.
The ferry boat plying between Memphis and Mound City, Ark., was burned by guerrillas on Saturday. Stores in the vicinity were robbed, and many horses were stolen. Gen. Sherman has been petitioned by many citizens to close the liquor shops. Gen. Hovey's division of Curtis' army left Helena on the 4th for Clarendon, on White river, where a large body of rebels were encamped. The rebels, apprised of his approach, fled in the direction of Little Rock. A cavalry force was sent in pursuit.

A special from Cairo to the Herald states that Fort Donelson had been abandoned by the Federals, as a large rebel force was advancing upon it. The fort is now valueless, there being but thirty inches water in the river.

New York, Aug. 21.
A most elegant banner was given to Gen. Wilcox last evening, at the Athenaeum club, 51st avenue, by our fellow citizen, Wm. J. Blodgett, Esq., in which he was joined by a few personal friends of the General.

Among the distinguished guests was Major Gen. Mitchell, Mayor O'Byrne, Hon. Hiram Barney, Charles H. Marshall, Esq., David Dudley Field, Gen. Ashborth, Col. Bailey Myers, Col. F. Howe, Capt. Hodges and others, all of whom made short and capital speeches, which, as the occasion was not a public nature, we refrain from publishing. The speech of Gen. Mitchell was one of the most beautiful and patriotic efforts of the Astronomer General. Gen. Wilcox, in closing a very interesting account of his prison experience, which he modestly requested would not be made public, expressed himself as laying no claims to be considered a martyr, and only hoped for recognition for such services as he may be enabled to render his country in the field, to which he ardently wished he might be speedily assigned.

Gen. Wilcox will return to the west in a few days, where it is expected important duties will be assigned him.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA, CAMP AT NEW ULM, AUG. 21.

Tribune's Letter.—Again on the march, and that march a retreat. The camp, which only yesterday was situated at the foot of the mountain, (now memorable for ever), dissolved this afternoon into thin air, and headquarters are here without a camp, but here only for an hour, or three hours, it matters not which. The hurried order came to be ready to start at once; and before two hours had passed, tents and baggage, all of headquarters but its personnel, were moving to the rear.
